HIGH HEELS PUT CORNS ON TOES

TELLS WOMEN HOW TO DRY UP A CORN SO IT LIFTS OUT WITHOUT PAIN

Modern high-heeled footwear buckles the toes and produces corns, and many of the thousands of hospital cases of infection and lockjaw are the result of woman's suicidal habit of trying to cut away these painful pests.

For little cost there can be obtained at any pharmacy a quarter of an ounce of a drug called freezeze, which is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus without the slightest danger or inconvenience.

A few drops applied directly upon the tender, aching corn stops the soreness and shortly the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out. It is a sticky substance, which dries the moment it is applied, and thousands of men and women use it because the corn shrivels up and comes out without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Cut this out and try it if your corns bother you.

WANDERED OVER BORDER, RHODE ISLAND HUNTER PINCHED

Raffaele Greco, of Providence, Pays $18.69 for Innocently Straying Across State Line.

Raffaele Greco, of Providence, was before Judge W. F. Woodward in the town court Monday morning to answer to a charge of hunting on Sunday contrary to the law of the state of Connecticut.

Greco was arrested at the Rhode Island-Killingly line, a few miles east of here, and was taken into custody by Game Warden Harry Battey and Protector Robert Saunders, who were out watching for violators of the game laws.

In court Greco said he became lost and did not know that he had crossed the state border into Connecticut. It is alleged that he was hunting on Sundays, so he did not intend, he said, to violate the law.

Statements made by Battey and Saunders indicated that the deer was at the outside, not over 100 feet into Connecticut when he was arrested.

Under the circumstances the court imposed a fine of only one dollar and costs on Greco, but the costs were heavy, including the fee of the game protectors, so the assessments against Greco amounted to $18.69.

Greco did not have that much money with him, but said that he would get it and return, leaving his dog and gun in the hands of the game protectors. Greco is the first arrested this season for having wandered over the Killingly line from Rhode Island while on a hunting trip.

When Greco was arrested he was unable to return to the point where he had left his automobile to go into the woods, and when he left last Monday morning by trolley he was some worried as to what condition the machine would be in when he found it.

ford, Union, Woodstock, Stafford, Willington, Mansfield, Chaplin, Hampton, Killingly, Brooklyn, Ashford.

The infectious disease known as rabies has been epidemic in Connecticut, resulting since January 1st, 1917, in the killing of a large number of infected dogs. Approximately one hundred persons have been bitten by rabid dogs, necessitating Pasteur treatment, and three human lives have been lost by this terrible disease.

In view of these facts it is evident that the quarantining and muzzling of all dogs in separate towns has not prevented the spread of this disease. It is clearly necessary to take more drastic action.

Therefore, an order has been printed to take effect November 6th, 1917, requiring that all dogs of a large in all of these towns without collar and license tag attached, shall be considered stray dogs and shall be killed by the dog warden, and all dogs wearing collar and license tag attached, found at large, shall be impounded by the dog warden and killed if the same is not redeemed as provided by chapter 121 of the Public Acts of 1911.

If your dog is not registered, or if he is registered but has no collar with license tag attached, and you wish to save its life, see your town clerk at once and secure a dog tag, and then keep your dog quarantined in close confinement, or securely chained on your own premises, or held on leash no dog will be allowed to go at large after November 6th, 1917, except as noted in quarantine order, a copy of which has been mailed to your town clerk.

In pursuance of authority given in Section four, Chapter 234 of the Public Acts of 1917, a special deputy from this office will visit the several towns mentioned in the quarantine order, and require a strict enforcement of the law.

Why does Brer Rabbit Molasses make folks recall the days of '61?

PROBABLY no other food recalls childhood days to folks who were tots in '61 as Brer Rabbit Molasses.

Molasses and Childhood! Inseparable!

There are two mighty good reasons for giving children Brer Rabbit molasses:

No. 1—they want it—they like it. It makes bread and everything else taste better.

No. 2—(probably only the old folks know this) the U. S. Government shows in Farmer's Bulletin No. 142, that there is greater fuel value, per pound, in molasses than in steak, fish, soup, chicken, bread and milk.

Brer Rabbit and Sliced Bread. Sensible, economical and nourishing. At meals and between meals.

CHILDREN of today aren't a bit different from the little folks of '61.

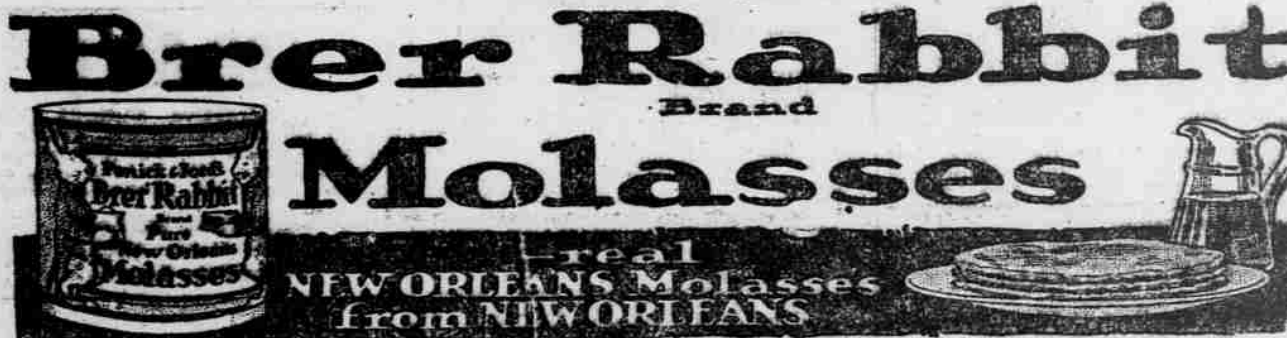

Give them Brer Rabbit on bread and biscuits. And be sure to let the old folks recall "the days gone by" with Brer Rabbit and pancakes or waffles.

Brer Rabbit is now sold by all first class grocers—there's no doubt but that your own grocer can supply you with Brer Rabbit. Ask him.

A new recipe book of good things as made down South with Brer Rabbit will be sent you on request. Write us today for it.

More Helpful Corn Recipes.

Last week recipes were given by the home economics demonstrator for cornmeal bread made light by using yeast. This week the recipes are given for breads made light by using soda and molasses, and soda and sour milk.

Boston Brown Bread—One cup rye meal, one cup granulated corn meal, one cup graham flour, two cups sour milk, one and three-quarters tablespoons soda, one teaspoon salt, three-quarters cup molasses. Mix and sift dry ingredients, add molasses and milk, stir until well mixed, turn into a well-greased mold, and steam three and one-half hours. The cover can be greased before being placed on mold. The mold should never be filled more than two-thirds full. A one-pound baking powder box makes the most attractive shaped loaf for steaming; place mold on a trivet in kettle containing boiling water, allowing water to come half-way up around mold, cover closely and steam, adding as needed more boiling water.

Nut Brown Bread—One-half cup sugar, one-half cup molasses, two cups sour milk, two teaspoons soda, one and one-half cups white flour, one cup nut meats, one-half cup raisins. Mix well. Let stand one hour in bread pan. Bake in a moderate oven forty to fifty minutes. In place of nuts and raisins three-quarters cup nuts and dates mixed and sifted, may be used.

New England Brown Bread—One and one-half cups stale bread, three and one-quarters cups cold water, three-quarters cup molasses, one and one-half cups granulated corn meal, one and one-half cups graham flour, three teaspoons soda, one and one-half cups rye meal. Soak bread in two cups of water over night. In the morning cup through colander, add molasses, dry ingredients mixed and sifted, and remaining water. Stir until well mixed, fill greased one-pound baking powder boxes two-thirds full, cover, and steam two hours.
